Eco living right at home

At Ecopolitan, much thought and effort has gone into offering green features into every aspect of your home and lifestyle. These are done without any compromise on the luxurious lifestyle that awaits. So, you can still help to do your part by saving the environment while living it up! Truly the best of both worlds!

Sustainable design planning

Green initiatives are already in place, right from the very start. All residential blocks are planned to enjoy a North-South orientation so every home will enjoy optimum natural lighting without direct heat from the sun. This helps you to save energy costs for lighting during the day and extra airconditioning to cool your home.

Green layers

Residential blocks are designed around lush landscaped spaces that serve as green layers. The first layer, around the perimeter of the development helps to filter out noise pollution. With its generous amount of greenery and water, the second layer within the heart of Ecopolitan helps to cool the entire area. Meanwhile the third green layer shields the development from the outside to create a world of exclusivity within.

Maximising natural lighting and ventilation

By carefully planning the location of each residential block, maintenance costs and energy consumption are kept low by using as much natural lighting and ventilation in common areas like lift lobbies. Each home is also designed to enjoy natural light and breezes to flow through. This will help reduce your utility bills by minimising reliance on artificial lighting and airconditioning.

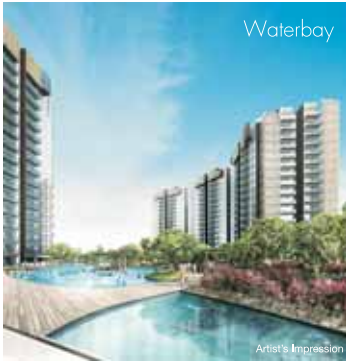

Green architectural features

Reflecting the cosmopolitan lifestyle of its residents, the architectural designs of Ecopolitan also serve as climate-responsive features. Vertical fins along the facade, as well as projected balconies, offer shade and protection from the sun's heat. By naturally cooling the home, you can help save the earth by reducing the need for airconditioning while maximising energy savings.

Cycling towards a green and healthy lifestyle

Lessen your carbon footprint while enjoying a healthier way of life. To encourage everyone to adopt a greener lifestyle, Ecopolitan offers bicycle racks around the development for the convenience of all resident cyclists, young and old.

Brought to you by an internationally-recognised developer

Stylish, luxurious, exceptional, Ecopolitan is yet another proud creation of Qingjian Realty (South Pacific) Group Pte Ltd, the real estate development arm of Qingjian Group Co. Ltd.

Qingjian Group (Qingjian) is a conglomerate with a rich history of more than 60 years with businesses covering domestic and international contracting and investment, real estate development, capital management, logistics and more. As one of the earliest Chinese construction companies with ISO9001 compliance, the Group had a turnover of RMB 35.8 billion (SGD 7.16 billion) in 2012 and was ranked 104 in Engineering News-Record (ENR) Top 225 International Contractors.

Almost everywhere in the modern cities of China, you can find Qingjian Group's creations, from residential houses to commercial towers and even significant landmarks such as the Olympic Sailing Centre, Liuting International Airport and Qingdao International Conference Centre. Still raved about today, these celebrated public icons have earned the Group numerous Luban prizes — China's highest recognition for building projects.

The Group's escalating success has led it to extend its operations globally. Since 1999, the Group has been developing a wide spectrum of buildings in Singapore — from private and public to commercial and industrial. A notable achievement is Natura Loft (2008), an HDB-DBSS development that won the BCA Green Mark 2010 Award (Gold Plus). Other quality luxury developments include NiN Residence at Potong Pasir (2010), RiverParc Residence at Punggol (2011), Riversound Residence at Sengkang (2012), River Isles at Punggol (2012) and Waterbay at Punggol (2012). Today, Qingjian Group has established itself in more than 30 countries around the world, with over 50 domestic and international branches. While the Group continues to expand its stronghold, it remains focused on one mission: to build valuable, world-class works of art and create harmonious space that will touch the hearts of people.
